

ASTER GAUGE 1st CLASS PASSENGER COACH TYPE JNR Coach NAHANFU & Observation car

This was the first air-conditioned passenger car to operate in postwar Japan, and it was affectionately known as the "Blue Train." These models, one observation cars and one power supply car were made by one of our vender of South Korea, intended to be paired with a JNR type locomotive. This led to the production of UP water tanker car the following year. (The design was a direct copy of the Nahanehu of 1989 for JNR C11, which was made in Japan, but the main difference was the addition of interior trim.).

Type 20 sleeper” Nahanehu”

Observation

power supply car

